The Elephant and the Blind Friends Reader's Theatre Activity

Materials Needed

- Story "The Elephant and the Blind Friends"
- Paper for creating scripts
- Construction paper for prop creations (if time)
- I like, I wish evaluations

Activity procedures

1. Divide the students into small groups.
2. Students will write a play of the story that they will act out for the class or another group.
3. Explain that they will have to identify the characters and turn the written text into dialogue.
4. Also help them turn the text into dialogue by asking prompting questions.
5. As you are rotating around, watch the groups practice their plays giving praise and suggestions.
6. As an alternative, the teacher might help the class create a script based upon the events of the story
7. When scripts are ready, give students time to practice a performance.
8. When prepared, students can perform for an audience.
9. The audience may or may not use the "I Like and I Wish" forms.
10. Review the process of giving positive and constructive criticism to their peers.
11. Have each group present their plays, while the remaining audience fills out the evaluation.
12. Discuss the moral or theme they think the play was about.
